* Senate House Library is the University of London's central library; the Library has extensive holdings (c. 2 million titles, electronic resources and special collections) on all aspects of the arts, humanities and social sciences, with open access floors of bookstacks, study space and expert help.

Access to Senate House Library is not restricted to members of the University of London. Visitors from other universities – both in the UK and overseas – as well as private researchers and members of the public are all welcome to use the Library and its collections. You will need to join Senate House Library; please contact their membership team at shl.membership@london.ac.uk, T +44 (0)20 7862 8439.
